

Greetings

Dear AEMI partners and friends

It is a great pleasure to invite the members of AEMI to Hamburg in October 2009. Hamburg has been writing migration history for the past 200 years. Historical and current aspects of transnational migration can be observed, studied and discussed. BallinStadt Emigration Museum, opened in 2007, focuses on transatlantic emigration via Hamburg in the years 1850 to 1934. Together with the hamburgmuseum both institutions will provide an excellent platform for you to exchange and deepen most recent aspects of migration research at your Annual Conference 2009. I wish for a successful conference and shall be looking forward to your coming.

Dear AEMI members
Dear friends and promoters of migration research

We are pleased that the Annual Conference of the AEMI, following successful conferences in 1991 and 2000, will be taking place for the 3rd time in Bremerhaven in 2009. You will quickly notice how much has changed in Bremerhaven in the past nine years. A completely new tourist area, called Havenwelten, has developed.

Bremerhaven, the city at the mouth of the Weser River, was historically the largest German port of emigration: between 1830 and 1974 some 7.2 million people from Germany and Eastern Europe emigrated from here to the New World. With the German Emigration Center, opened in 2005 and winner of the European Museum Award 2007, Bremerhaven now possesses a national and international forum for migration research. Hence, it makes an excellent meeting place for your conference. I wish you great success and a pleasant stay in Bremerhaven and Hamburg.
